– Diego Rivera Turns Up on Antiques Roadshow: Spoiler alert! Among the highlights of the forthcoming 17th season of PBS's much-loved "Antiques Roadshow" is a visit to Corpus Christi, Texas, during which a local resident presents appraiser Colleene Fesko with what turns out to be a long-lost and historically significant 1904 oil painting by Diego Rivera. She estimates that it is worth between $800,000 and $1 million, the highest appraisal she will give during her multiple appearances this season. [ArtDaily]
